Sunday at the Belle Glade Marina. Tickets are on sale at local businesses. Doug Manger, chief of the South Bay Fire Department says South Bay only needs to find a place to put the trophy once they win the bucket brigade Sunday.

Sunday is big Red Cross Centennial celebration

Sunday is the day for the Glades Area American Red Cross Centennial Celebration Barbecue, with festivities set to start at 12:30 p.m. at the Belle Glade Marina.

The anticipated highlight of the bash, "Firematics," will start about 3 p.m. and will include the Pahokee, Belle Glade and South Bay Fire Departments. Firematics will be a series of "Almost Anything Goes" types of contests, which include a bucket brigade, obstacle courses and a water battle. And despite the drought, celebration Chairman Marshall Bull said the event will go on as planned.

"The only thing that will stop it will be a flood or a hurricane," Bull said. "And neither one of those are likely."

Bull added that none of the water used in the firemen's contests will be wasted, with most if it running off or spewing back into the rim canal. Other scheduled events at the celebration include: Palm Beach County Sheriff's Dept. SWAT display and lecture, 4 p.m.

-Belle Glade Police and Sheriff's Departments Attack Dog demonstration.

-Glades General Hospital and Everglades Memorial Ambulance displays.

162 housing units set

BY JIM JONES

After 2½ years of planning and preparation, ground was broken Tuesday, May 19, for a 162-unit housing development at Okeechobee and Osceola Centers.

The three and four bedroom houses and two bedroom duplexes will replace existing one and two bedroom frame houses, built in 1939.

Costing $5 million, the project will be completed in 648 days. One hundred five units will be built in Okeechobee Center south of the canal which bisects the development.

The remaining 57 units will be built in Osceola Center. Planners believe approximately 525 persons will be accommodated in the new housing at Okeechobee Center, plus 260 at Osceola Center. Each of the new units will cost approximately $31,000.

"Members of the Belle Glade Housing Authority are to be commended for making this possible," said David Motes, housing authority executive. Continued on 2

Court upholds election

Reversing a lower court, the 4th District Court of Appeals last week upheld the 1979 election of Belle Glade City Commissioner Dorothy Walker.

Circuit Judge William Williams III's ruling was overturned May 13. Williams, acting on a complaint filed by Mrs. Kenneth Harris, ruled in Dec. 1979 that Mrs. Walker had failed to establish a legal residence in the city's East Borough and was unqualified for election. Harris, a produce buyer, was defeated by Walker in the Sept. 1979 elections. District Court Judge

Water rules could tighten

BY ALMA HENRY

BELLE GLADE—Glades Residents, along with the rest of South Florida, could be faced with stricter water usage regulations due to the lack of rain and the continuing drop of the level of Lake Okeechobee.

As of Tuesday, the U.S. Corps of Engineers reported Lake Okeechobee had declined to 10.74 feet above sea level, and area weathermen predict no rain in the immediate future and dry weather until the middle of June.

With no rain and the lake continuing to drop, the South Florida Water Management District (WMD) in an effort to alleviate a major water crisis, is considering implementing a 35 to 50 percent mandatory reduction.

WMD officials said public health, domestic and commercial water usage would be given top priority if the 35 to 50 percent cuts are required.

If WMD officials take that step, all watering of lawns would be prohibited.

On last Thursday, WMD ordered a 25 percent reduction in water usage and asked that county and city officials adopt ordinances supporting the 25 percent reduction.

Most cities in Palm Beach County have complied with WMD requests but several cities have remained on a voluntary water reduction plan.

In the Glades, the cities of Belle Glade and South Bay enacted an emergency ordinance on Monday, May 11, to deal with South Florida's crucial water shortage.

In Pahokee, however, the City Council agreed to remain with a voluntary 10 percent water reduction plan.

Under South Bay's new ordinance, the use of trees, limiting sprinkling, watering or irrigating of trees, lawns, grass ground covers, plants, gardens, and shrubbery to between the hours of 4 to 6 a.m.

there after misdemeanors as authorized by the city. As of Wednesday the South Bay Police Department had no reports on persons or businesses violating the ordinance. The City of Belle Glade adopted a similar ordinance with the exception of times for watering and irrigating shrubbery, trees, lawn, gardens and ground covers. Belle Glade restricted the time for such activity from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. Under the Belle Glade ordinance, two means of enforcement are provided: 1. Citation by the Belle Glade Police Department and 2. Cutoff of the city water supply. The city manager is empowered to make exceptions to the ordinance when in his judgement the public health and safety is jeopardized. When the South Florida Water Management District declares that the area-wide emergency is over, the city's ordinances will automatically be repealed. With the Palm Beach County Commission unanimously approving the 25 percent water use cutback by the Water Management District, the city of Pahokee with no adopted ordinance, must now comply with the County ordinance, with homes, watering lawns with even numbered addresses on even days and odd numbered addresses on odd days. Palm Beach County Commission said they will consider even stiller cutbacks Thursday at 3 p.m., depending on what the Water Management District decides earlier.

Daniel Hurley said a review of the lower court record shows there was a lack of substantial evidence to support Williams' conclusions. Kenneth Harris was defeated in his bid for third term two years ago, and about a month later, his wife filed the lawsuit which resulted in Judge Williams' ruling that the election was "null and void."

Walkers' lawyer, Tobias Simon of Miami, persuaded Judge Williams to suspend enforcement of his ruling until it had been reviewed by the District Court.

Williams said that while Walker moved some of her belongings into a rental apartment at 349 SE Third St. prior to the election, "It was not her legal residence and it was nothing more than a mail drop in an effort to comply with the residency requirements of the Charter of Belle Glade for election to the East Borough." A person must reside for a year in Belle Glade and live in the borough in which he or she is running for election.

Hurley's ruling effectively said Walker had met the city's election requirements, "bearing in mind the general principle that the primary consideration in an election contest is whether the will of the people has been effected."

"Justice has prevailed," Walker said in a press conference Wednesday morning. "I am a bonafide resident of the East Borough. I feel excellent about the decision. I believe it's a landmark case."

Walker was a third year law student at the University of Miami at the time Harris' suit was filed. If the Harris' suit had been upheld, she could have been barred from practicing law in Florida.

Roe Steele of Belle Glade won the contract for the Ocochee Center project, while Luis Construction of Belle Glade won the contract for Ocochee Center.

Housing planners evaluated the condition of housing and selected groups of buildings to be replaced. Some of the new houses will be built on sites where frame houses have burned.

The last construction undertaken at the developments was completed in 1970.

As the new houses are built, residents will move from the old houses into the new.

"It can't all be done at once, we don't have the vacancies," said Motes. "People have to have a place to live."

A moratorium on leasing units to new renters will remain in effect until the new construction is completed.

"When Mr. Steele begins driving those pilings, it will all be worthwhile," Belle Glade Mayor Tom Altman said of the genesis of the project.

Among those taking part in the ground breaking Tuesday were Mayor Altman, Housing Authority Director Cecil McClure, architect Kenneth Rubsam, Housing Authority Chairman Louis Kirchman, District Farmers Home Administration Director Charlie Hudnell, and state FHHA Director Mitchell Drew.

"Why spend money on electricity when you could spend it on something else?"

Watt-Wise Living pays. Just ask Mr. and Mrs. Renaud of West Palm Beach. They've been saving on their electric bill ever since they moved into their new home. Their average monthly bill in their centrally air conditioned four-bedroom home has been around $80 in the summer months, $65 in winter.

What's Watt-Wise Living? It's a combination of features that meet FPL's energy-saving standards and can be easily included in the construction of a new home. Over a period of years they can save you substantially more than their cost. Naturally, how much you save will depend on your lifestyle and conservation efforts.

Watt-Wise homes have cost-saving features like extra ceiling and wall insulation, solar or heat-recovery units for water heating, a higher-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump, Power Saver like fluorescent lighting and a mini-wave oven, and thermally efficient windows and doors, with glass areas planned to minimize heat build-up.

Today, there are many ways to save on electricity without giving up comfort. You'll find them in FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program. Today's one of the wisest investments you could make. Stop by your local FPL office and pick up a free brochure.

Sheriff's Department gets German reinforcement

He goes by the name Jago vom Siegfried Strunner, but Deputy Thomas Lee Brooks just calls him Jago. What criminals call the 85 pound bundle of disciplined biting power has not — and probably cannot be — reported in a community newspaper.

Jago is a three-year old Schutzhund, closely resembling a German Shepherd, but with a pedigree longer than that of many persons who proudly tout their blue-blood ancestry.

Last week, Lt. Billy Love, administrative officer of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, Glades Office, presented Deputy Brooks and Jago with a certificate recognizing their completion of 80 hours of classroom training and 296 hours of on the job training under John Preston, a nationally known dog trainer for the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Postal Service.

Jago gives local law enforcement officers a big boost when his talents for tracking, building searches, bomb searches, and drug searches are needed. Jago can even pick suspects out of a lineup.

Though Brooks has only had Jago for eight weeks, the Frankfurt, Germany, born dog has already helped recover stolen property in Raderville and locate three breaking and entering suspects, and a prowler.

Jago will also be used with the SWAT team and in search and rescue missions.

Jago, who cost the Sheriff's Department $5,500, joins six other animals already on the K-9 roster, including a doberman, two American Sheppards, and three Schutzhunds.

tone of voice. Brooks notes that Jago will only bite a suspect as long as he resists.

Coming to the Glades from the cool climate of Germany, one of Jago's few problems has been in adapting to the heat. Schutzhunds, scored by their handlers for obedience, courage, and attack work, are shipped all over the world, and Jago will adapt.

A difference in Schutzhunds and American Sheppards is the breeding. American sheppards tend to be bred for their beauty, while Schutzhunds are bred for strength and work.

Brooks has demonstrated Jago's training to students at local schools. At the American Red Cross centennial celebration in Belle Glade this weekend, he will demonstrate Jago's abilities once again.

Clues sought in shooting death

Law enforcement officials are seeking a motive and clues in the shooting death of a Lake Mary truck driver at the Days Inn Thursday, May 14.

Robert W. Barton, 34, was found in his room Friday morning, sprawled on his bed in a pool of blood.

The case is being investigated by the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department and South Bay police officers.

Trained continuously since he was six months old by methodical German trainers, Jago came to the United States understanding only German commands. Brooks had to learn to address the dog in German and has since taught him new duties, including protecting Brooks and his car, and getting use to the siren and noise of the communications equipment.

Though Brooks and Jago get along well now, this was not always the case. When Brooks first met Jago, the dog tried to bite his new master. It took Brooks about 45 minutes to get Jago into his sheriff's car the first time. And when Brooks left Jago in the car briefly to fetch his supplies, the dog snapped at him upon his return. Brooks was so startled that he dropped all of the supplies on the ground.

Warily, Brooks tied Jago's leash to his wrist and began the drive from West Palm Beach to Belle Glade. Jago growled all the way.

"Since that time, we've been inseparable," Brooks said. "He follows me all over the house. If I go outside, he has to go outside — he won't have it any other way."

It is law enforcement that Jago is trained for and whether he is busy making an aggressive building search or bringing down a criminal, he does his job with the quiet efficiency of any competent police officer. Brooks gives Jago his commands in a quiet

ALMA HENRY
HOW I SEE IT

School draws to an end

As the school year draws to a close, the local agendas at the high schools seem like a mad rush of activities for senior and students who have excelled in music, sports and academics.

Each year along with the agenda of activities comes the names of those students who have put forth the greatest effort to succeed in a given area.

But each year there is room on the agenda where parents of these scholars are honored also.

But for many of us present we never get to see that guiding force behind those exceptionally talented students.

For when the time comes for the recognition of parents, many of them are present but there are just as many or more that are not present.

Parents, after twelve long years, your sons and daughters look forward to seeing your faces among the crowd of those wishing them well on their years ahead.

Many of them see this as a time of saying a 'special thank you' to "mom" and "dad" for all you've done and all you're going to do during the next four years and the rest of their life.

Many of them use this time as a time to say gladly, "I told you so, you did not have faith in me, but I had it in myself!"

Many of them use this time to say, this is one of your rewards for all the long hours you worked, all the money you spent, all the activities you had to attend, all the classroom visits you had to make and all the screaming and hollering you had to do...

Parents when your sons and daughters are honored this week, next week and the week after, be present.

Believe me, I was a kid once, and there is no more joy than seeing Mom and Dad's face, along with family and friends when that coveted moment comes, be it graduation, an awards banquet, or whatever.

As the El Dorado Civic Center finalizes plans for its Fourth Annual Sickle Cell Anemia banquet, why not make plans now to be among those present.

Sickle Cell Anemia is a dreaded disease that affects persons of all races but had a higher rate of occurrence among Blacks.

In the past we have looked to others to financially support our programs and our causes.

The time has come when we must support our programs and causes as wholeheartedly or more so than those who have previously supported our causes.

The Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation, along with such groups as the Urban League, the NAACP, etc. are things we need to support one hundred and one percent.

So when C.T. Taylor, of "Black Is" addresses the El Dorado Civic Club and their guests... be one of the guests. Support the cause, a damn good cause...

Florida mango varieties help raise world production of fruit

Florida's mango industry, although small, is a mighty midget and still growing. Like the lime and avocado industries, it survives in the face of expanding globalization. Unlike the lime and avocado industries, its yields have increased.

The flesh of mangoes is usually juicy, orange-yellow and the taste is mild to rich and sweet.

According to USDA horticulturist Robert J. Knight, Jr., approximately 1729 acres (700 hectares) produce an average of 7150 tons (2600 metric tons) of fruit a year worth $2 to $3 million.

The mango industry in the U.S. is based on cultivars that originated in Florida from imported germplasm-hereditary material that provides characteristics for the best generation.

The two most important cultivars, 'Tommy Atkins' and 'Keitt', and 7 other cultivars from our state produce 50 and 45 percent respectively of the total quantity marketed yearly in Florida, says Knight, who is with the Science and Education Administration's Subtropical Horticultural Research Station here.

In the last 10 years the U.S. market for mango fruit has more than tripled, due partly to replacement of less dependable cultivars with 'Tommy Atkins' and 'Keitt'.

The mango is a fruit of major economic importance, ranking in world volume of production only behind grapes, bananas, and plantains, citrus fruits and apples.

Florida has exerted an influence on the mango industry out of all proportion to its size, despite the limited volume of its production when viewed on a world scale. Between 1889 and 1914, more different mango cultivars were brought to Florida from India, Vietnam, the Philippines and elsewhere than had ever been assembled before in one geographic location.

The mango's breeding system depends on outcrossing [mating of different strains], and therefore thousands of chanc seedling trees of mixed origin developed in Florida. Among them were a few that had the desirable characteristics of dependable productivity, disease resistance, attractive appearance and high fruit quality. 'Haden' was the first major success, but it has now been replaced in Florida by more productive cultivars.

For the past 3 years imports from Mexico of the Florida variety 'Tommy Atkins', 'Keitt', 'Kent', and 'Haden', an early cultivar once popular in Florida and widely distributed to many parts of the world, have amounted to 10 percent of the U.S. Market.

Mango cultivars developed in Florida are now also commercially important in Brazil, Israel, Hawaii, and numerous Central and South American countries.

Brazil, the world's second largest producer of mangoes, following India, has disease and varietal problems, and production is not adequate to meet domestic needs and supply expanding foreign markets. However, the problems are well recognized, and research efforts to surmount them are in progress, says Knight.

Florida varieties may supply Brazil with new vigor, and because of its location on the opposite side of the equator, scientists say that Brazil's crop of fresh mango fruit matures at a time of year that enables it to complement rather than compete with U.S. PRODUCTION.

The bright side

It gives me a good feeling when I drive a clean car. I suppose that's why I'm in less than a blisful state most of the time, what with one of the dirtiest cars in town.

Lately, however, I've felt a new surge of pride in my dirty car. It's proof positive that I'm doing my civic duty to conserve water.

Don't lie awake at night, worrying about the drought. It's highly unlikely that your house will disappear into a sinkhole.

Geologists say that only the more northerly parts of the state are old enough to enjoy sinkholes. Seems there is a problem with our part of the state being too young.

Well, its time to start talking about football again. Most of the area high school teams are now in spring training.

In reading a biography of Joe Namath the other day, I discovered that he wasn't a starting quarterback at Beaver Falls, Pa., until his senior year.

For most of his high school days, Broadway Joe was concerned about his lack of size. As a Freshman, he weighed only 115 pounds.

He was sensational his senior year, however, and had 62 major colleges trying to sign him up.

He went on to Alabama when he became nationally famous. In a game Floridians will never forget, the Gators defeated the Crimson Tide 10-6 at Tuscaloosa. It was 1963 and Tommy Shannon was the quarterback for Florida. The next year, Steve Spurrier would put Shannon on the bench and eventually win the Heisman Trophy.

Namath made quite a splash with his $400,000 bonus when he signed with the New York Jets. It was reported that in 1966 he had a plush apartment on Manhattan's fashionable Upper East Side, complete with a rug. Namath was paying the princely sum of $500 a month for the apartment. That will give you an idea of how far inflation has taken us since then.

Fall will be here soon, and who knows there may be a 115 pound, home-grown Joe Willie out there, just waiting to enter the limelight.

Christian Day School bows out of state tournament

Christian Day ended its best baseball season ever (23-4), with a 16-0 loss to eventual state Class A champion Miami Loyolla, May 14 in Orlando in the state tournament.

"I have never been so impressed in my life with a baseball team," Crusader Coach Gus Harmon said of Loyolla, who went on to trounce runner-up Monticello 10-0 in the championship match. Both games were ended in the fifth inning.

under the 10-run rule.

"They (Loyolla) are the best team in any high school class, that I've ever seen," Harmon added. "They were awesome, in a league by themselves."

Christian Day got only two hits—a double by Tavi Garcia and a single by Alex Morales. Loyolla had 13 hits.

The other team in the state finals, Orlando Lutheran, lost to Monticello in the first round, 18-8.

Star pitcher William Cruz was benched for the state finals, due to disciplinary measures. But Harmon said it wouldn't have made much difference had Cruz started for the Crusaders. "I don't think we would have scored a run to support him anyway."

Harmon said.

Loyolla has now won back-to-back state championships, after winning titles in 1975 and '77.

In fact, all four state baseball champs were from Miami this year—Class AA Westminster, Class AAA Pace and Class AAAA Jackson.

Pahokee Chamber banquet this week

Recognition of Pahokee's Citizen of the Year and a music-filled evening highlight this year's Pahokee Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The banquet is set for Thursday, May 21, at 7 p.m. at Prince Theater. It will be the 30th anniversary of the banquet.

The meal will be served at 7 p.m., followed by entertainment at 8:15 p.m. On the entertainment bill are violinist Sogji Tabuchi, the Lennie Johnson Band, and Nashville recording artists Gary Goodnight and Donna Hodges.

Belle Glade chamber discusses plans

Although the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce didn't have a quorum at its regular meeting May 14, the few members there discussed topics ranging from Black Gold plaudits to plans for the group's 1981 Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

Cook-out plans for the June 13 bass fishing tourney were talked about, with members estimating that about 500 dinners should be prepared for spectators and participants.

A report on the Glades Day Gators football championship signs, which were erected at the city limits last month was given. The signs cost about $120.

In other business: —the group discussed the June 27-28 Kilo Boat race, which the chamber has endorsed.

—heard that the membership had increased to 240 members, up from 234 at the same time last year.

—made plans for the 1981 banquet, to be held this fall, and the awards to be given at it.

—talked about erecting a community church sign board on the chamber's property at the old Chamber of Commerce Building at the corner of Main Street and East Canal Street (where the Army recruiter's office is located).

—discussed prohibiting food in all outside group's meetings in the chamber office.

—discussed purchasing a new fire extinguisher for the old chamber office.

Ground breaking held for new Palm Beach Blood Bank

The Palm Beach Blood Bank held its groundbreaking Monday, May 11, at the construction site [45th Street and Emergency Drive—near St. Mary's Hospital] in West Palm Beach for the new $1.7 million blood bank headquarters and laboratory facility to be completed by early 1982.

According to the blood bank's executive director, Joseph L. Faletta, the new building's 14,000 square-ft. area will nearly double the size of the existing facility at 15th Street and Dixie Highway, and feature ultra-modern blood collection and processing equipment, an expanded frozen-plasma capability, and computerized record-keeping.

The interior of the one-story, masonry structure will be highlighted by a streamlined laboratory area designed to expedite the testing and distribution of blood. The facility will also have its own emergency generator to insure that blood-related operations will not be affected in the event of power failures.

The relocation of the blood bank will relieve the overcrowded conditions existing at the present facility, which the blood bank has occupied since 1955. During that time the area's demand for blood has increased 80-fold in response to the population growth; today the annual need exceeds 40,000 units.

Of the $1.7 million cost, approximately one-half of the total amount will come from cash reserves, sale of the present property, and a long-term mortgage. To obtain the remainder, the blood bank has launched a major fund-raising appeal called "Project Lifeline." Thus far, pledges to the campaign have passed the $300,000 mark.

The blood bank is a non-profit community blood center and is the sole source of all the blood required by the 15 hospitals located in Palm Beach, Martin, Hendry and Okeechobee counties. That area encompasses almost 5,000 square miles and a population steadily approaching the one million mark.

To serve the region's needs the blood bank maintains eight separate branch stations as well as two bloodmobiles. The latter are completely self-contained units which travel throughout the four counties on a scheduled basis.

A Pahokee mother of four daughters, Nola Nagler was picked this month as the 1981 Herald-Observer/First American Bank Mother of the Year.

Nagler, a Pahokee resident for 22 years, was chosen in the newspaper's annual contest last week. She received a $50 savings certificate from First American Bank and a year's subscription to the Herald-Observer.

"Oh my goodness, how wonderful!" Nagler exclaimed when she was told by telephone that she had won the award.

Daughter Fayrl, a 1981 Pahokee High School graduate, submitted her mom's name in the contest. "My mother has given love and guidance to me," Fayrl said on her mother's entry blank. "She always has time (despite her busy activities) to teach us, care for us, and give us love."

Mrs. Nagler is married to Arthur Nagler, manager of Everglades Farmers Cooperative. The Naglers have three other daughters—Randee, a 1972 Pahokee graduate; Alya, a 1976 Pahokee valedictorian; and Andrea, a 1979 Pahokee High School salutatorian.

Mrs. Nagler has received many awards and honors for her years of work with local schools and community groups. She has received the Distinguished Community Service Award from the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, and helped raise $30,000 for the Pahokee High School Band. The money was used to help send the band to this year's Mardi Gras in New Orleans, where the band took fourth place in competition.

Her activity in schools is typical of her attitude about education.

"I think our parents, instead of complaining all the time about it, should stand behind our school system and our teachers," Nagler said. "It's the most important thing we can do to improve our schools."

For seven years, Nagler has advised the Pahokee High School Band. She has also been a parent liaison for Title I at Pahokee Elementary School and has taught art classes at Pahokee Middle School. Nagler, an amateur artist, has studied under Glades artist Ann Tyler.

A former girl scout leader, Mrs. Nagler was also a Pink Lady at Everglades Memorial Hospital. Husband Arthur is on the hospital's Board of Directors, and is a past president of the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce.

The Naglers' children are high-achievers too. Randee is the youngest assistant principal in the Atlantic City school system while Alya is studying law at the Spearhead-Holland Law School in Gainesville. Andrea is attending the University of South Florida at Tampa. Fayrl is Pahokee High's drum major, president of the Student Council, Devil's Tail editor and a volunteer for Red Cross.

Excited and surprised when notified of winning, Nagler said that being a good mother is the most important thing a woman could strive for.

Nagler was chosen in the newspaper's annual contest last week as the Glades outstanding mother. She has participated in numerous civic and school activities while raising her four daughters.

UM Women gather for round up

PAHOKEE — One hundred women and girls gathered at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall for the annual mothers and daughters day hosted by United Methodist Women Friday evening, May 8.

President Sandy Simonson welcomed the mothers and daughters. Talent for the program was provided by the church membership.

Among the country and western stars appearing were the Mandrell Sisters, impersonated by Michelle Wilkerson, while Kassie Simonson and Sarah Hatton, set the mood with "Home on the Range" and "God Bless our Mothers," which was written by Julia Wilkerson.

First United Methodist's own country recording artist, Willie Tyson shared several songs she's written and a medley of gospel favorites.

Other entertainment included aerobic dance-round up style with Lisa Cook and Michelle Crosby, a poetry recitation by Angie Lane and a pantomime skit, "Cow Patty," acted by Cindy Jolly and Mandy Weeks. The Rev. Haw Gospiar's gamelan, "round the world in 80 days," spread some foolishly funny rumors.

Also presented for the first time, the "Tootin' Tumbleweeds," a rag band directed by Ava Sue Hickerson, shared of Wee Care at 996-6196 or Jones at the Okeechobee Day Care Center, 996-9007.

During the evening, Inez Reeves was saluted as the United Methodist Woman of the Year for her outstanding service in the local unit and as a district officer of the United Methodist Women.

Babies born in the last year to members of the church were honored and presented a gift by baby coordinator, Kathy Cross. Babies recognized were Jennifer Lacy Busby, Joseph Jarman Salvo, Ashley Leann Hyler, Robert Owen Shackford III and Justin Shiver.

Lacile Rayburn, membership chairman, presented corsages to new U.M.W. members, Barbara Edwards, Jan Wilson, and Glenna Helvy. Mrs. Doris Donovan, the wife of Rev. Donovan, pastor of the United Methodist Church, also received a corsage as a gesture of welcome to U.M.W.

As part of the entertainment, all guests participated in a scavenger search for a desperado. To everyone's delight, mother and daughters competed in a western relay, donning western clothes, moulting a horse, smoking a peace pipe and taking a drink from the well.

The entire program was

'KEEPING THE FAITH'

by Joe Ed McGahey
Community
United Methodist Church

"And after He said these things, He was lifted up while they were looking on, and a cloud received Him out of their sight." Acts 1:9 NASB

One week from today, May 28th, the church will celebrate the ascension of the Lord Jesus Christ. The ascension came 40 days after the resurrection. During that 40 days Jesus made many appearances to individuals and to small and large groups of people. The fact of His resurrection was firmly established, but now it was time for this part of His ministry to close out in a visible way, so that His disciples could know not to expect anymore visible appearances. They also needed some direction about what to do now. They needed to know something about how to deal with the future. So on the day of His last appearance He was with His disciples, perhaps more than the eleven remaining apostles, on the Mount of Olives, overlooking the Jewish Temple in Jerusalem. On that ascension He gave them some last minute instructions, answered some questions (Acts 1:4-5) and then departed from them. As they stood there looking up into the heavens hoping to get one more last glimpse of the Lord, we are told, "behold, two men in white clothing stood beside them and they said, 'Men of Galilee, why do you stand here looking into the sky? This Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in just the same way as you have watched Him go into heaven.'" Acts 1:10 and 11 NASB.

Well, what does the ascension mean to us? It means many things; far more than I can talk about in the space of this column. But there are two promises connected with the ascension that I want us to look at in a few lines. The first of these promises is that of the Holy Spirit coming upon the church of Jesus Christ. We find the beginning of that promise being fulfilled in the very next chapter (Acts 2) on a Jewish Feast Day-Pentecost. Since then the Christian Church celebrates Pentecost at the day of the Coming of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is still at work in the Church and in the lives of individual Christians, and it is His Presence that enables the Church to witness with power. The Holy Spirit is the power of God's Presence. But I'll write more about this in two weeks. The second promise is that of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. Now like the first promise, this is not an isolated one time given promise. This promise is given to us many times in both the Old Testament and the New Testament. This is a promise that we can be sure of because it comes to us from God. Now, what do we mean when we say or hear that "Jesus is coming again?" This doctrine sometimes gets overemphasized, but more often gets ignored. It certainly was not ignored by the early church, even though there was a long way off from the fact of Jesus coming again.

Jesus is coming back to earth to make all things right. He is coming to set up His earthly rule. Now that is the promise of God's word. However, some things have to happen before that great event. Israel must be established as a nation. That of course happened (33 years ago). Jerusalem must again be a Jewish owned city. That happened in 1967. Then there must be the seven years of tribulation that has not yet happened. But many, many Biblical scholars believe that all the signs are in place for that time to begin almost anytime. Well the truth is we do not know, and we can't know exactly when this will happen, but Jesus said while we will not know the day or hour, we could know when that time is drawing

During the ceremony, a queen and king were selected. Lauree Walker was chosen as the queen and James Tyler was chosen as the king. Both students are fourth graders at Belle Glade Elementary.

Rev. Evans named to Mental Health staff

BELLE GLADE — The Rev. David T. Evans, Jr., pastor of the Everglades Presbyterian Church, has joined the staff of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic as a part-time pastoral counselor, according to Jean Cogar, executive director of the clinic.

Rev. Evans, who will receive his Doctorate of Ministry degree in June, will counsel individuals, couples and families on marriage and family problems.

Evans, who has counseled as a minister for 25 years, will put into practice his training in Gestalt Therapy, transactional analysis and other methods.

Rev. Evans, who will continue his pastorate with the Everglades Presbyterian Church, is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and holds a Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Houston. He graduated from Austin Theological Seminary.

Rev. Evans said his goal at the Mental Health Clinic will be to help strengthen the religiously weak and to redirect religious thinking of the guilt ridden.

"People can be helped by a strong religious basis. However, if religion is only creating guilt in a person then that individual needs help," he added.

Rev. Evans said he is glad to be associated with Mrs. Cogar and her staff of doctors and therapist and will maintain counseling hours on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons.

"The Mental Health Clinic is a private not for profit organization which is striving to help people reach their optimum potential as a person," said Mrs. Cogar.

She added, "We are also planning to have Rev. Evans coordinate support groups to meet in local churches. This will greatly expand the services of our group of professionals to the Glades community."

BREAK OUT OF YOUR SHELL

If anyone is as expert as anyone, new folks to church in a Church Regard. Last week Charles had a neighbor who told him that the experience was — definitely a church door was shut.

The secret is simple, says Charles. "Most people who don't worship God do it in a way that they don't believe. Just that the western world has become a shell church and that's what God Charles says is a great tragedy. He says we are too busy and very preoccupied about the importance of God. He never fails to check this little voice."

One of these mornings, a very comforting voice within you says say. Break out today break out of your shell and say Charles in church.

That can be the beginning of a new life.

HRS tries to stem tide of venereal disease

An increasing venereal disease rate has led the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services to launch a campaign to increase public awareness of the problem.

Persons in the 15 to 29 year old category account for 84 percent of the total cases, said Tom Burns of the HRS office in West Palm Beach.

Palm Beach County ranks 14th in the state in cases of gonorrhea. In 1980, there were 639.4 cases of gonorrhea per 100,000 population reported, compared to 585.5 per 100,000 in 1979.

Palm Beach County experienced a 16 percent increase in gonorrhea during 1979-1980, while the increase was about 15 percent in the Glades area, Burns said.

Though the rate county-wide is 639.4 per 100,000 the rate among the most susceptible age group — 15-29 — is 2,671 per 100,000, he said.

"A lot of people are under the misconception that drugs they pick up on the street will cure the problem. It doesn't work," said Burns, urging persons who suspect they have the disease to see a physician or report to a health clinic.

"It's a serious problem. They don't realize that the longer they have the disease, the greater the risk of complications," he said.

In the Glades area, persons can find help at the county health department located at 1024 N. W. Ave. D, Belle Glade, from 8 to 11 a.m. Wednesdays and from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursdays. Treatment and examinations at this facility is available free.

During 1980, Palm Beach County reported 3,630 cases of gonorrhea. About 54.6 percent of the cases were reported in men.

More than 65,000 cases of gonorrhea were reported last year to public health officials in Florida. The number of cases is likely even higher because of under-reporting by physicians in private practice. Overall, Florida's gonorrhea rate is fifth highest in the United States.

Fifteen of the reported cases did not respond to conventional treatment. These were caused by a new strain of the gonococci called penicillinase-producing Neisseria gonorrhoeae (PPNG) which is resistant to penicillin. In the first 11 weeks of this year, 53 more of these cases of PPNG occurred, causing health officials considerable concern because of the rapid increase.

Dr. James T. Howell of Tallahassee, State Health Officer, says that the number of persons with gonorrhea is considerably more than the reported cases. Many people have the disease without knowing it. They are the silent carriers; there are no symptoms. Unfortunately, they can pass the infection to others.

Officials with the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services' Venereal Disease Control Program say that about 60 percent of women infected with gonorrhea and 5 to 20 percent of men have no symptoms. Only examination by a physician and follow-up laboratory tests can confirm the presence of infection.

As a result, Program officials are urging that sexually active people, particularly those with more than one partner, have a periodic examination by their doctor or at the local county health department clinic.

"If there is evidence of disease, treatment is advised," said Jack E. Wroten, chief of the Program. "Fortunately, the diagnosis of gonorrhea is a relatively simple procedure and treatment — usually involving penicillin or other antibiotics — is effective in the majority of cases," he said.

"By identifying and treating asymptomatic carriers we may be able to break the chain of infection as well as prevent complications from developing that may accompany gonorrhea."

When gonorrhea is untreated, the consequences are likely to be serious, especially among younger women in their childbearing years, according to Dr. Howell.

The most frequently diagnosed complication is pelvic inflammatory disease or PID, he said. It occurs in 10 to 17 percent of women who have gonorrhea. This condition and its associated complications can lead to other serious medical problems as well as premature loss of the ability to conceive and bear children.

Complications include scarring of the fallopian tubes. This build up of scar tissue can prevent the women from becoming pregnant or lead to tubal pregnancy, Dr. Howell said. This latter condition usually results in spontaneous abortion and can be a life-threatening medical problem.

Symptoms of pelvic inflammatory disease include pain in the lower abdomen, chills and fever, irregular menstrual periods and lower back pain that may extend into the legs.

Women with PID caused by a gonococcal infection that spreads into the organs of the pelvic region are more apt to become ill during the first 10 days of the menstrual period and to be more severely ill than those with nongonococcal disease, according to Dr. Howell.

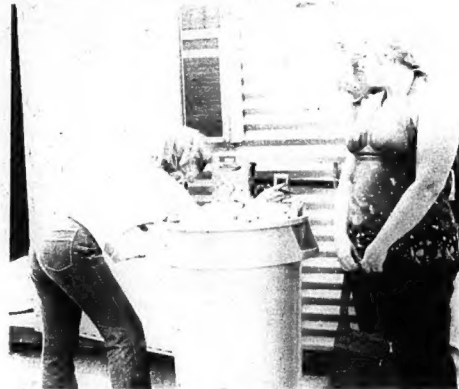

They are usually much younger and are likely to have fever and to experience more pain, he said.

Other than changing social behavior, the most important safeguard against pelvic inflammatory disease is early diagnosis and treatment. When symptoms are present, the patient and her physician should be aware that gonorrhea may be a cause.

Officials of the Venereal Disease Control Program and of the county health departments have been working with hospital emergency rooms to set up cooperative treatment and follow-up programs for patients with gonococcal pelvic inflammatory disease.

Seventeen are in operation. These programs are designed to ensure that patients with gonorrhea receive appropriate treatment and that follow-up interviews are done to locate sexual partners who also may be infected.

ITS ALUMINUM RECYCLING TIME...

TRICIA BLASH, executive director of the Association of Retarded Citizens Glades Area gets into the swing of things Monday, when the Association opened its aluminum recycling operation. While the students took a lunch break, Mrs. Blash weighed in cans for the first two customers, Christy Murray and Jane Sanchez. Before the day was over a number of aluminum collectors had stopped in at the aluminum recycling center located on N. West Canal Street adjacent to the Winn Dixie Food Store.

Seniors observe Older Americans Month

Belle Glade Mayor Thomas Altman has declared May Older Americans Month and Tuesday, May 19, as participants in local Senior Citizens programs gathered at the Lakeshore Civic Center and (are recognized for their contributions.

Guest speaker for the day was Eugene T. Gillis, assistant director of Program Operations for the Florida Farmworkers Council, Inc.

Gillis encouraged the Seniors to stay involved in the community and provide leadership and guidance to the younger people they come in contact with.

"No matter what you've done, there is so much more to be done," Gillis said. "If you don't do it for yourself, you ought to do it for the children."

Gillis urged the Seniors to get involved in local government and attend school board and city commission meetings. "On election day, you ought to set the pace in this community," he said.

"We still need you on the battlefield. The war isn't over. I can't let you rest. You must stay on the firing line," he said.

Gillis asked the Seniors to help their children raise their grandchildren. "I challenge you to give that last ounce of energy you have," he said.

"We need you. That's gratitude enough. We can't say to you go sit down and rest," Gillis said.

Gillis said he objected to the portrayal of black people on television and asked why there are no shows featuring blacks in successful, positive roles. Television shows blacks in comedy roles or always trying to escape from the ghetto, he said.

"Why don't they let J.J. get a good job so that he would really be dynamic," Gillis asked.

Also taking part in Tuesday's program were the Glades Central Community School choir, the Rev. Slim Nelson, William Jordan, Mrs. Easie M. Joseph, Mrs. Lexie M. Childs, and Miss Daisy McCloud.

E.T. Gillis

Honorees were Rev. Nelson, Mrs. Minnie McCloud, Hubert Curtis, and Mrs. Mollie Smith.

The first large theft of cigarettes came during the night of January 5th when thieves broke into a warehouse yard, hooked a tractor to a trailer loaded with cigarettes and made an undetected getaway. The emptied trailer was later abandoned and recovered.

That one theft netted 1,345 cases of cigarettes... or 80,700 cigarettes... which were later led into south Florida's bootleg cigarette channels of distribution.

A little over a month later, agents of the Federal, ATF and of Florida's Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco made an undercover purchase of 27,933 cartons (or 464 cases) of bootleg cigarettes. Those seized cigarettes were later positively identified as having come from the stolen

This year's theme is "A China Town Disco" featuring Dr. J. of WRBD radio station of Ft. Lauderdale.

Admission for the affair is $7 per person.

Door tickets will be given away. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Glades Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Proceeds from the disco will go towards a

Cigarette bootlegging becoming major crime problem trailer-full of cigarettes. Three men were arrested and two rental trucks were seized along with that undercover purchase. The trucks were later returned to the rental company which owned them.

Two nights later, a boxcar on a rail siding was broken into and 232 cases... or 13,920 cartons... of cigarettes were stolen.

So far, none of that second stolen lot of cigarettes has been recovered... and no arrests have been made.

The tally in this new "sophisticated" approach of obtaining cigarettes for Florida's bootlegging cigarette trade presently stands at 577 and 232 cases... or 94,620 cartons... stolen; 465+ cases... or 27,933 cartons recovered; and three men arrested and awaiting trial...

Net loss in tax monies in Florida in these two large-scale thefts: $166,717.50.

Cigarette bootlegging has come a long way since the Legislature raised the tax rate on cigarettes to 21 cents per pack in 1977. The 21 cents per pack rate is still unsurpassed anywhere in the nation.

When the 21 cents per pack tax was added, Florida's 3 cents sales tax levy on the average purchase price of a pack of cigarettes in 1977, it gave Florida the highest total state tax burden on a pack of cigarettes: 24 cents. That was $2.40 per carton... or $2.10 more per carton than the state tax burden on cigarettes in North Carolina... and more than a dollar per carton above the tax rate in the states adjoining Florida.

But inflation has caused a rise in the price of a pack of cigarettes since 1977. So today, Florida collects a 25 cents total state tax burden on each pack of cigarettes sold legally here.

Back in its infancy in 1977, cigarette bootlegging into Florida was a low volume, casual undertaking. By 1980, it had become a big money-producing activity of organized crime. Until 1981, source of the cigarettes for cigarette bootlegging had been principally from legal purchases in North Carolina.

1981 has brought forth the next step in the chain... thefts of large quantities of cigarettes from the legitimate distribution system in Florida.

The development of cigarette bootlegging in Florida has clearly paralleled that in New York City where a locally imposed tax, coupled with the state tax, made the nation's largest city the earliest of the targets of bootleg cigarette activity.

If that parallel continues, Florida will soon have its first violence in cigarette bootlegging: Violence... and death... follow closely behind the advent of large scale thefts of cigarettes from legitimate channels of distribution.

It's difficult to get an accurate projection on the loss of Florida tax revenue each year to sales of bootleg cigarettes. Federal projections peg that annual loss to Florida at over $40 million. Tobacco industry projections run to about twice that amount.

Simple arithmetic yields an accurate account of the tax loss from known cigarette thefts.

If human life should be lost during the commission of a large scale theft of "legal" cigarettes in Florida that loss would be incalculable.

The indications are there. 1981 could well become known as the year during which cigarette bootlegging in Florida moved from the so-called victimless crime column into the major crime category.

Glades Central chorus entertained area Seniors Tuesday

How to manage your first paycheck

If you've just graduated or you are about to graduate and start your first full time job, you may want some advice about managing your first paycheck.

According to the Florida Institute of CPAs, you should set up a budget and cash flow statement to keep track of day-to-day expenses and plan for future expenses. The cash flow statement will show you where your money is coming from and where it's going. Your paycheck is probably your primary source of income at this point, so this is your

"cash inflow."

"Cash outflow," or what you'll be spending money for, is your budget. Categories should cover rent, utilities, food (both at home and at work), clothing, transportation, entertainment and medical expenses. Some categories can be subdivided — clothing includes laundry and dry cleaning costs, for example. Keep each category general enough so your list doesn't get too cumbersome, CPAs say.

Other expenses that your budget could include are auto loan payments and expenses. Don't forget any student loans on which repayment may soon begin. If you haven't worked long enough to be included on your employer's health insurance plan, be sure to budget for medical expenses or individual health insurance premiums until you are covered by the company plan. On your cash flow statement, pencil in all these payments, so you know when you will have to spend more money than usual. A miscellaneous category can cover such items as newspapers and toiletries. By giving yourself a set amount of "walking around money" each week, you won't have to constantly note how much you spend for every little item.

Because you don't have any previous financial record showing you how much money you spent for each of these categories in the past, CPAs suggest you carry a notebook around for several weeks. Jot down each amount you spend and what it's for.

Compromise okayed by Authority

The Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority approved a compromise agreement which it hopes will get construction on the Glades transfer station underway once again Monday, May 18.

Construction came to a halt in January because of cracked pilings and beams and cracked and bulging walls. The transfer station is being built to haul Glades garbage and trash to the coast.

The city planning and building department issued a stop order on the construction, pending study of the problem by the Authority's consulting engineer, Barker, Osha, and Anderson.

Plans prepared for the engineer called for building another wall inside each of the east and west walls which were damaged.

Factors leading to the damage within transfer point was the use of garbage as fill within the interior walls and fires at the landfill site.

Blocks used in the building were not firebrick and there was no way to determine how much heat the block had been exposed to. Water had been pumped into the cells to fight the fire.

Timothy F. Hunt, Jr., executive director of the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority, said that a county negotiating team had met with the contractor, Reliable Equipment of Fort Lauderdale, Friday and tentatively reached an agreement on the overrun of about $21,800.

The agreement was to split the cost between the Solid Waste Authority and the contractor, he said.

John Adams, attorney for the authority, said the agreement was reached after a "good deal of give and take over several hours."

Adams said that he was pleased that the contractor was agreeable to splitting the cost, noting that the cost overrun had been the "primary stumbling block" to getting the project untraced.

In addition, the authority agreed to purchase as much of the equipment needed for the project as can locally be procured and subtract the amount spent from the contractor's bill, Hunt said.

Belle Glade Mayor Tom Altman said that he questioned the deductions from the contract price as the contractor had 1 1/2 years of inflation working in his favor.

Adams suggested that the inflation instead work ed in the city's favor, as a larger amount would be deducted from the contractor's bill.

Altman called work done at the transfer site a "lucky, patched up job," noting that taxpayers will be footing the bill for an additional $11,000 and delay of several months.

"It's not one (a deal) that you can get excited over. Is it the best deal we can come up with?" he asked.

Adams responded that the best deal was to get the transfer point into operation as soon as possible. "I assure you none of us are happy about it. We think it's the best way out of a difficult circumstance," he said.

County Commissioner Bill Bailey suggested adding a penalty clause to the agreement, which would require the contractor to pay the Authority $1,000 a day for every day past 75 days given for the completion of work.

The board approved the negotiated settlement, including Bailey's penalty clause.

The next meeting of the Solid Waste Authority is set for Monday, July 20.

Southern Bell to charge for unreturned telephones

Effective May 15, a new telephone return incentive plan went into effect for all of Southern Bell's subscribers in Florida.

An experimental version of this tariff has been in effect in Dade and Monroe counties since March 2nd.

For some time now, Southern Bell has credited its residential customers with $5 for returning all company-owned telephones to a Phonecenter Store when disconnecting telephone service.

The new plan imposes a service charge if customers do not return their telephones or fail to make them available for pickup by company personnel. For example, a customer will be charged $35 for a standard rotary-dial desk telephone or $45 for a standard touchtone telephone.

phone.

Avoiding this service charge will be simple, said Rob White, Southern Bell's local manager. "It's just a matter of returning the telephones or having them picked up — something the vast majority of our customers already do in compliance with existing tariffs."

White said, "This service charge became necessary because residence telephones are now generally portable and therefore telephones are more subject to loss than they were when most sets were wired permanently."

"Last year, White said, 'the losses due to phones not returned to the company in Florida represented a sizeable expense of approximately $5 million that in effect is shared and paid for by all customers'."

"We hope the existence of this charge will reduce these losses on a statewide basis as it has in the South Florida experiment," White said.

The company said that payment of the service charge is not intended to transfer ownership of the unreturned telephones. The sets would still belong to Southern Bell. If a service charge is billed and the telephones are subsequently returned by the customer within a reasonable period, the charge would be cancelled.

Customers will be notified about this change in an insert accompanying their bill. In addition, the plan will be spelled out in detail for customers when they call the phone company to arrange a move or have their service disconnected.
